

Maury Ely Award Nomination

The Maury Ely Award is one of the most prestigious honors an ISA member can receive in the industry. The award is named after a gentleman who helped give meaning and prominence to the International Sign Association, formerly known as the National Electric Sign Association. As ISA's executive director, Ely helped advance this organization's stature. The award is presented to an individual who has distinguished him or herself for meaningful and meritorious contributions to both our State Association and the industry.

The privilege of nominating a recipient of this award is available to the entire membership of ISA. The nominations received are then reviewed by a special selection committee.

The Maury Ely Award will be presented at the annual ISA Sign EXPO and Fall Conference. All initial nominations must be submitted to the ISA office. Please use the form below.
